Rottem or Hir Toby Belch. It may be pleaded in extendants that Autolyces is hardly so g.cd as either of these parts. Acted ever so well, he would not have the same effect on the autospoot. As we have said be ore, he seems to have been worked into the pay to lighton it up, and his character is more like an outline sketch than a finished portrait. We were surprised to find Mr. Burton very careless in the words. Mrs. Parker's Hermome was excellent. She adhered closely to the ext, and read it clearly, forciloy, intelligently and effectively. She looked every men a queen, and her status seems was quite equal to Mrs. Warner's. If we had any man't to fine with so careful a performance it might be said that Mrs. Parker was a little too vigorous in the rendering of her speech in the trial scene. Mrs. Hughes played faultim capitally, and proved herself a valuacie selvecate for woman's rights. The manner in which she planed into Leonice was refreahing, and fully justified he remarks.

Miss Thorne looked postty enough to enchant half a doner Forisels and that is about all that Perdita has to do. Great praise is due to Messra. Moore and Setchell for the clever manner is which they acted the Shepherd and the clown. Both parts were exceedingly well acted. Indeed, we are glad to say that the actors generally acceded, we are glad to say that the actors generally are was well filled, and the consequence was that the representation was one exceedingly pleasant to see, and very creditable to all concerned. The play went off very smoothly, and apparently much to the gratification of a full house. Mr. Burton was called for after the curtain fall, and, coming forward, he was received with hearity fall, and, coming forward, he was received with hearity applaines. He thanked the antience for that—spoke of the extreme difficulty of the task of representing an anaetted play of Shakapere's—paid a grazeful compliment to his company, and announced "The Winter's Tale" for "every evening till further notice." If the public can appreciate an entertaining play, thoroughly well done in every respect, that "further notice" with not be given the second of the extreme time to come the extreme of the company, and announced "The Winter's Tale" for the result of the company of the task of representing an appearance an entertaining play, thoroughly well done in every respect, that "further notice" with not be given to the company of the task of the second of the extreme time to come the company of the task of the extreme time.

Wild be ready on Saturday, February 16,
THE SHAKBPEAKE PAFERS,
Of the late Wm. Maginn, LLD., (vol. 3, of Miscellanies,) annoated by Lr. McKenzie, is one vol. Limo. Price Si.
Yet another commentator and critic upon shakspeare!
The late Lr. Maginn, whose name is associated with the early successor Blackwood's art Fraser's Magzines, who had long prepared for a new edition of Shakspeare, only realized a portion of his purpose. ris analytic criticism on the leading characters of shakspeare's plays, and his arguments in proof of the learning of "the bard of time," which are well remean bered, are here collected by Dr. Mackenzie, and form the third volume of Maginn's miscellaneous works. Much ingeouity of reasoling, great scholarship, and many suggestions as to new Leadings of Shakspeare, characterize this interesting volume.

Who have waite for partners too long,
An impression will make, if they valentines take,
From the splendd assortment of Strong.
Let old fogles unwed, with a shake of the head,
Say the custom is vulgar and low;
Young America goes, for fun "under the rose,"
And each gir hopes to hear from her beau.
Each triand that one meets take of Strong's pictured she Takes one's arm and shouts out. "Come along,
Let us hasten and choose, rich and rare billet down,
From the matchless collection of Strong."
Such delictous designs, such original lines,
Both come, and tender, and true.

From the marchiese collection of Sirong."
Such delicious designs, such original lines,
Both comic, and tender, and true,
Never came into play, since on Valentine's day
Human doves tried to bill and to coo.
All manner of themes, of which love ever dreams,
Tender thoughts made melodious in sor g.
With good natured jokes, meant for queer kind of folks,
You will get on applying to Strong.
